Hi, thank you for downloading this free DIY Edition of the Creation Curve Compass Planner. This is the Free Forever Edition--there will never be any charge for this printable version of the planner.

Here's what to do next:

1. Print the entirety of this document once to start. There is about a month's worth of planning tools ready to go. If your printer supports double sided printing, use it. If it doesn't, don't worry about it, the planner will still work just fine on single sheets of paper as well

You can re-print any number of these templates as you need for yourself, your friends, your neighbors, your enemies-- anyone you think could benefit from a little values-based planning.

2. Set aside the Compass sheets. There's two, one for your first draft, a second to refine or use later when your values and goals shift.

3. Find a 3 hole punch, Circa punch, Arc system punch (see <http://creationcurve.com/planner> for more resources and hacks) or even just a good old fashioned stapler and bind your planner together, starting with the "THIS PLANNER BELONGS TO" page. You can use it loose-leaf if you want, but it's probably easier to carry it in some kind of binding.

4. Fill out the Compass according to the instructions. You can see a short video on how to use the compass at <http://creationcurve.com/planner>, but if you want a deeper dive on how to hack the compass we have a webinar you can attend as well.

5. Find some scissors and cut out the Compass. You can keep it in the square if you want, or cut it out all the way. Whatever you want, I'm not your mom.

6. Now, start with the Big Picture Planner and mark down any big events in the next year or so.

And then...

7. Use the Parking Lot pages to list off the stuff you need to do. Get it out of your head and onto paper.

8. Add the items on the Parking Lot pages to your daily planner pages. As you add them to the daily pages, cross them off the Parking Lot.

9. Physically turn your compass to the area of value you're working on throughout your day. It'll keep your head tuned into what you're supposed to be doing. When it's time to switch areas, rotate the compass. I know, it sound kinda silly at first, but your mind sometimes needs a physical action to kick it into gear, and a visual reminder of what you want to be doing. It actually does help to move your brain into a new mode.

Over at <http://creationcurve.com/planner>, you'll find:

- A short Getting Started video
- A link to Resources that can help hack your planner
- An invitation to a Deep Dive Webinar to help you dig deeper into the Compass and the Planner
- Planner Add-Ins that you can print and further customize your planner
- and more!

Thanks for being part of this unique values-centric movement! We need to bring human values back into all aspects of life, and you're part of that!
